

New report: Project Next Generation

National Careers Week is a busy time for advisers supporting students to make informed decisions about their future. UCAS' new report looks closely at how students choose their subjects and careers and how they assess the different pathways to get there. We share the latest insight into 6 key themes and how advisers and parents can best leverage UCAS' tools.

Latest insight from the UCAS Conference

For those advisers unable to join us in Birmingham we have created a first summary of key operational updates including references, personal statements and the shape of the cycle. We're also starting a series of monthly webinars to share the most popular sessions and insight alongside your monthly newsletters.

Student access to entry grades data

Students have told us that entry grades data would help them make informed decisions about their future when narrowing down their application choices. Therefore, from May, following an 18-month testing program with providers and students, which confirmed the data is motivating and informative for students, entry grades data will be available on course details pages within our search tool.

Your discovery starts here

The UCAS Discovery exhibition tour kicked off this week in Manchester. Make sure your students get to their local event to start their journey of discovery. If you have booked your spot your students should register for their ticket in advance to make the most of their visit and receive personalised support in the lead up to the day.

Supporting students receiving offers

Students who have made an application to university or college before 26 January may start receiving offers. Here are the types of offers they may receive.

If your students did not receive offers from all five choices, they can use Extra to add another choice.

Preparing for the 2025 cycle

The Adviser Portal has a new feature enabling you to download your student applications in bulk in a PDF format to save you time when preparing for the next cycle, and before 2022 and 2023 cycle data is removed. Product Manager Callie Hawkins has developed a step-by-step guide to take you through the process for the first time.
